

Question Marks that Matter

Apologetics in Post-modern Times

God is not so much a problem to be solved, as an adventure to be undertaken

Question Marks that Matter is the latest series of talks from Simon Gomersall, drawing the best from classical apologetics and applying it to contemporary culture, sensitive to post-modern issues and attitudes. They are offered in a spirit of dialogue, yet drawing on and affirming the historical foundations of the Christian faith.

The talks are based on stimulating visual presentations and are ideal for churches, youth groups and schools (Chapel Services or Religious Education lessons). Each talk runs for 30-40 minutes, ideally followed by a period of questions and discussion.

In 2007 topics being offered are:

- *The Existence of God
- * The Challenge of Other Faiths
- * The Problem of Pain

Other topics are coming soon.

What others have said about Simon Gomersall's presentations:

A balanced yet simulating presentation, well organized and easy to listen to. He used powerpoint, questions, images and answers to great effect. His enquiry based approach was appreciated and admired.

Mr Ian Loom, Head of Religious Education, ACGS (Churchie)

Well researched and informative. We valued your sharp intellect and the academic honesty with which you approached your topic.
